The Taming of the Shrew (1967)

Starring: Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton

Director: Franco Zeffirelli

Awards: Nominated Academy Awards Best Art/Set Direction;
Best Costume; Nominated Golden Globes Best Film
Musical/Comedy; Best Actor, Musical/Comedy

Zeffirelli shows his knack for bringing 16th century storytelling to modern audiences. When young student Lucentio wanders into the town of Padua, he promptly falls for the beautiful Bianca. But before her father will let her be courted, he insists that her wilder, older sister Katherine (Elizabeth Taylor) be married. So Lucentio and friends hire the tipsy, flea-bitten Petruchio (Richard Burton) to step up and woo the "shrew". The realistic period detail is lovingly photographed and the film has a lively score. This is Shakespeare with zest! (1967, 2 hours 6 minutes)
